CALL FOR PROPOSALS

13th ERES Education Seminar

Alicante University, Spain

December, 1st – 2nd 2017

The European Real Estate Society (ERES) is pleased to announce the 13th ERES Education Seminar to be held in Alicante, Spain, organized by the University of Alicante, during December, 1st – 2nd 2017.

The Seminar will provide a forum for academics to present and discuss research on Real Estate Education, the challenges, techniques and other related issues. The seminar will devote one panel to identify the introduction of energy concepts in real estate education. This panel reflects collaboration with the RENTALCAL Project and its team members.

The conference will offer a unique opportunity to network with leading academics and researchers in real estate Education, share techniques, ideas, plans, new perspectives and any learning methods and processes with new approaches, and the changing trends and global developments in the field of Real Estate Education.

The seminar includes video recording sessions that will be transformed into a set of e-lectures to be uploaded on the web. The video recorded sessions will be Friday morning and afternoon of 1st December. We'll send details of the proposed schedule.

Seminar Themes

The Seminar is calling for contributions in any real estate topics but we ask potential presenters to specially consider contributions on energy and data analysis (big data) issues.

Submission Guidelines

The submission deadline for the seminar abstracts is September 30th, 2017.

An expression of interest to participate is required to be sent to the organizer's email by July, 25th for those who want to prepare a lecture to be recorded. In this case, the topic and title for the 5-minute lecture must be included together with the author's name and affiliation in the message. The final document (powerpoint presentation) for the recorded session should be sent by November 1st.

Register of participants' deadline is November 15th.
